Here is a small selection of some of our better natural history books covering all subjects. Many of the titles in this catalogue are "fresh" in stock and have only been uploaded to our webpage after the catalogue's publication. It is always our aim to give regular customers the first opportunity to purchase. Most of the items in this catalogue will have images on the webpage and many will have additional text. We have made a number of recent purchases of solid natural history collections and will produce further catalogues in 2018.

By an old bushman. London: Routledge, Warne, & Routledge, (1862 second edition). Duodecimo, 272 pp., 16 uncoloured plates. Publisher's blindstamped cloth (a secondary binding?), contemporary inscription on title page, a very good copy. $300

Horace William Wheelwright (1815-1865) was a qualified attorney who migrated from England to Australia in 1852. He came in search of gold, was unsuccessful, and decided to put his love of field sports into practice by becoming a professional shooter of game. He supplied the Melbourne market with duck, quail, pigeon and kangaroo before leaving for Europe in 1859. An account of his Scandinavian experiences was published posthumously in 1866. He died in 1865 from injuries sustained from a fall in a London street. His account is one of the most informative and readable narratives of early bush life in the colony. The first edition was issued without plates.

[10488] Klauber, Laurence M. Rattlesnakes: their habits, life histories, and influence on mankind. Berkeley: University of California Press, (1997 second edition). Octavo, two volumes, 1534 pp., photographs, text illustrations, very good set in dustwrappers. $200

First published in 1956, this is a natural history classic. With a new foreword by Harry W. Greene and updated rattlesnake taxonomy.

[4109] Krefft, Gerard. The snakes of Australia [facsimile]. Brisbane: Lookout Publications, 1984. Quarto, 100 pp., colour plates. $80

Krefft's Snakes is the premier Australian reptile book and is one of the most desirable and important of all Australian nineteenth-century natural history publications. The plates were drawn and coloured by the Scott sisters, Harriet and Helena, who were responsible for many natural history illustrations including Krefft's other great book, Mammals of Australia, 1871. The original is now an expensive book and this excellent facsimile is a very good addition to any reptile book collection.

[36683] Lack, David.

[7226] Marshall, A. J. Bower-birds: their displays and breeding cycles. A preliminary statement. Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1954. Octavo, 208 pp., text illustrations, bookplate, very good copy in dustwrapper. $100

Jock Marshall (1911-1967) may have been a larrikin but he was a brilliant biologist. Bower-birds is a masterpiece of twentieth century ornithology.

[40363] Mees, G. F. A systematic review of the Indo-Australian Zosteropidae, three parts. Leiden: Brill, 1969. Large octavo, 662 pp., maps. Binder's cloth, bookplate, wrappers retained and with two other papers by Mees bound in. $250

[30578] Meinertzhagen, R. Birds of Arabia. Edinburgh: Oliver and Boyd, 1954. Quarto, 624 pp., 19 colour plates by G. E. Lodge, D. M. Reid-Henry and Miss Talbot Henry, other illustrations, folded map in back cover pocket, fine copy in dustwrapper. $850

History has shown that Richard Meinertzhagen is the bad man of twentieth century ornithology; he committed ornithological fraud on a grand scale, completely lied about his military exploits and may have murdered his first wife. He was a man of considerable means and consequently all his books are handsome productions with Birds of Arabia probably the best.

[9420] Miall, L. C. and A. R. Hammond. The structure and life-history of the harlequin fly (Chironomus). Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1900. Octavo, 196 pp., uncoloured lithographic frontispiece.
